HISTORY

Located at the northern gateway to the city, the 1930s Georgian Revival building was the Nurses' Home for the Lake County Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Crown Point, Indiana. It is a three-story, 20,000 square foot National Historic landmark building.

After the Sanatorium Hospital closed, it was left vacant for years. In 2017, the Lake County Commissioners (LCC) donated the building to Indiana Ballet Theatre (IBT), a nonprofit organization. The goal is to create a community arts center and destination for all to enjoy.

2017

Exterior building renovations completed.

2021

Interior building renovations, Phase I has begun.

YOUR INVESTMENT WILL:

- bring the ARTS to NWI
- preserve HISTORY
- educate students of ALL AGES
- develop NEW JOBS

THE CAC WILL:

- serve as a venue for social events
- offer rental space to artists/educators
- offer classes for ALL ages
- create a destination for families

WAYS TO SUPPORT

ONE TIME DONATION

Your participation matters. No donation is too small. Your contribution will create a community arts center for our youth and families for years to come. Together we make a difference!

RECURRING DONATION

Your recurring pledge is conditional on our ability to secure donations, pledges, and financing to fund the completion of the interior work needed. Once funding has been secured and interior renovations begin Phase 2 of construction, you will be contacted to set-up your preferred method for payment of your recurring gift. To submit your pledge, kindly fill out the form (see back of brochure).

NAMING RIGHTS

It is the policy of Classical Arts Centre to offer investors the opportunity to name the existing building, facilities, and areas thereof in exchange for a qualifying investment.

The Board of Directors of the IBT Classical Arts Centre has discretion to approve naming gifts. The gift agreement reflects the investor's promise to invest a stated amount, the investor's wishes concerning the use of the gift, and provides assurance that the gift will be used in accordance with the investment.
